Notes & News

Dear Families,

This week we are reading a non-fiction story about the desert. We'll learn about the plants and animals that can survive in this dry climate. In math, we are practicing more strategies to help us add and subtract, such as counting on, counting back, making ten, and using doubles facts. If you have flash cards at home, see if your child can pick out the doubles facts (2+2, 3+3). Then, see how quickly they can answer them. We'll have our first publishing party this week in writing. It should be a fun celebration of beginnings!
